A leading manufacturer of optical fiber cables

Overview

10 Best Fiber Optic Manufacturers for 2026 This comprehensive guide examines the top fiber optic cable manufacturers delivering high-performance fiber opti.

Key Takeaways

Top global optical fiber cable manufacturers include Corning, Prysmian Group, CommScope, Furukawa Electric, and Sumitomo Electric, recognized for innovation, global reach, and high-performance fiber solutions. Key Manufacturers1. Corning Incorporated Corning is a pioneer in optical fiber technology, holding approximately 10.

4% of the global market and a ~40% share in optical fibers specifically. They invented low-loss optical fiber in 1970 and continue to lead in glass science innovations, supporting telecom networks, hyperscale data centers, and high-speed communications. Corning invests over $1 billion annually in R&D and develops advanced solutions like ClearCurve fibers for tight bends and 800G Ethernet-ready products.

2. Prysmian Group Headquartered in Italy, Prysmian is the world's largest cable manufacturer with a 9–15% global market share. They provide a comprehensive range of fiber-optic cables, including submarine, fire-resistant, and bend-optimized fibers for 5G networks.

Prysmian operates over 108 manufacturing facilities in 50+ countries, emphasizing sustainability through recycled materials and eco-jacket innovations that reduce carbon emissions by 15–20%. 3.

Comm

Scope Comm

Scope is a major supplier of fiber-optic infrastructure for enterprise networks, broadband access, and telecom backbones. They offer loose-tube outdoor and tight-buffered indoor fiber solutions, supporting FTTH, FTTA, and 5G deployments. CommScope's global operations and turnkey solutions make them a key player in high-density and long-haul fiber networks.

4. Furukawa Electric Co., Ltd. A Japanese company, Furukawa has been a fiber-optic pioneer since 1976.

They dominate the Asian market with FutureGuide fibers, known for low attenuation and superior bending performance. Furukawa is expanding into smart infrastructure monitoring and industrial fiber applications, maintaining a strong presence in both telecom and enterprise networks. 5.

Sumitomo Electric Industries Sumitomo is renowned for inventing vapor-phase axial deposition (VAD) fiber manufacturing technology. They specialize in ultra-low-loss fibers for long-haul networks and industrial applications. Sumitomo continues to innovate in high-capacity transmission and specialized optical solutions for global telecom infrastructure.

Additional Notable Manufacturers

Other leading companies include AFL, Superior Essex, ZTT, and ZTO Cable, which provide specialized solutions such as OPGW, ADSS, and high-density ribbon cables for data centers, smart cities, and harsh-environment deployments.

Industry Trends

Submarine and long-haul networks are increasingly critical for global connectivity. Sustainability is a growing focus, with recycled materials and low-emission production. High-density and low-loss fibers are essential for 5G, 6G, and cloud infrastructure.

Vertical integration allows manufacturers like Prysmian and ZTO Cable to provide end-to-end solutions, from raw materials to finished cables. These manufacturers collectively shape the backbone of modern telecommunications, supporting everything from FTTH deployments to hyperscale data centers and global submarine networks.
