Affordable Middle Eastern mesh cable trays

Overview

West Port Cable Tray is a prominent manufacturer and cable tray suppliers in UAE and the wider Middle East region.

Key Takeaways

Pricing for Middle Eastern wire mesh cable trays varies by material, size, and project specifications, with suppliers providing quotes on request.

Key Suppliers and Options

West Port Cable Tray (UAE) specializes in wire mesh and basket trays suitable for light to medium-duty applications. Their trays are available in standard 3-meter sections with optional bends (30°, 45°, 90°) and can be customized for width, height, and finish. Materials include galvanized steel, stainless steel, and powder-coated options, with accessories for mounting and load distribution.

Pricing is project-specific, and quotes are provided upon request for both standard and bespoke sizes. Ruwais Steel (UAE) offers wire mesh trays for commercial, industrial, and household use. They emphasize strength and durability, with materials including hot-dip galvanized, electro-zinc, stainless steel, and black painted finishes.

Costs depend on material choice, tray dimensions, and quantity, and are provided via direct inquiry. Hitech Fence (Saudi Arabia) supplies heavy-duty cable trays for industrial and commercial projects. Their trays support power, control, and communication cables and are available in GI, HDG, and powder-coated finishes.

Pricing is customized based on BOQ submissions, including full accessories and approved finishes for KSA projects.

Factors Affecting Price

Material Type: Stainless steel and powder-coated trays are more expensive than galvanized or black-painted steel. Tray Dimensions: Width, height, and length influence cost; larger or reinforced trays carry higher prices. Load Capacity: Heavy-duty trays designed for industrial plants or substations cost more than light-duty office or server room trays.

Customization: Bends, tees, reducers, and bespoke sizes increase the overall price. Accessories: Brackets, couplers, and supports are additional costs. Quantity and Bulk Orders: Larger orders often receive discounted rates.

How to Obtain Pricing

Most Middle Eastern suppliers do not list fixed prices online due to variability in project requirements. To get accurate pricing: Submit a Bill of Quantities (BOQ) or project specifications to the supplier. Request a quote for standard or custom tray sizes.

Include details on material, finish, load requirements, and accessories. By contacting suppliers like West Port Cable Tray, Ruwais Steel, or Hitech Fence, you can receive tailored pricing that reflects your project's exact needs. This approach ensures you get competitive, accurate, and project-specific pricing for Middle Eastern mesh cable trays.
