Are adjustable fiber optic attenuators for sale

Overview

Fiber optic attenuators available for use in single mode 9/125, multimode 50/125 and multimode 62.5/125 applications. We also offer in-line & adjustable.

Key Takeaways

Yes, adjustable fiber optic attenuators are widely available for purchase, offering variable attenuation ranges and multiple connector types for single-mode and multimode fiber systems. Adjustable fiber optic attenuators, also known as variable optical attenuators (VOAs), allow precise control of optical signal strength to optimize network performance and prevent receiver overload. They are commonly used in telecommunication networks, FTTH systems, data centers, and optical testing setups.

Key Features

Attenuation Range: Typically from 0–30 dB, with some models supporting up to 60 dB. Connector Types: FC, SC, ST, LC, and APC variants are available to match different fiber systems. Fiber Compatibility: Single-mode and multimode fibers are supported, depending on the model.

Performance: Low insertion loss, high return loss, and minimal polarization-dependent loss ensure stable signal transmission. Durability: Designed for repeated adjustments and harsh environments, with robust construction and temperature/humidity tolerance.

Where to Buy

Fibertronics, Inc.: Offers adjustable air gap and variable attenuators with ST or FC configurations, customizable for fiber type and connector.

Digi

Key: Stocks a wide range of VOAs from multiple manufacturers, including Agiltron and Amphenol, with in-stock options for immediate purchase.

F

S: Provides fixed and variable attenuators for LC, SC, FC, and ST connectors, suitable for single-mode and multimode applications. Amazon & Walmart: Retail options for adjustable attenuators with ranges like 0–30 dB for SC/FC/ST connectors and 0–15 dB for LC connectors.

HOLIGH

T & HeyOptics: Specialized SC adjustable attenuators with precise control, low insertion loss, and compatibility with telecom and data networks. Thorlabs & TTI: Offer high-precision VOAs for laboratory, testing, and operational network applications, including FC/UPC and SC/APC interfaces.

Applications

Telecommunications: Balancing optical power in long-haul and metro networks. Testing & Measurement: Fine-tuning signal levels in lab setups. Data Centers: Optimizing optical power in high-density fiber networks.

FTT

H Networks: Ensuring consistent signal strength at end-user premises. Adjustable fiber optic attenuators provide flexibility and precision for managing optical signals, making them essential for both operational networks and testing environments. They can be purchased online or through specialized distributors, with options for immediate shipping and custom configurations.
