Key Takeaways

Stainless steel cable trays typically range from $20 to $40 per meter, depending on type, grade, and specifications, with bulk orders potentially reducing costs.

Pricing Overview

Stainless steel cable trays are premium solutions for electrical and industrial installations, offering corrosion resistance, durability, and high load capacity. Prices vary based on: Material Grade: 304 and 316 stainless steel are common, with 316 offering higher corrosion resistance and slightly higher cost. Tray Type: Ladder trays are generally more expensive due to higher material usage, while perforated or solid-bottom trays may be moderately priced.

Dimensions: Widths range from 50mm to 900mm, with depth variations affecting material cost. Surface Finish: Polished, powder-coated, or electrogalvanized finishes influence pricing. Load Requirements: Trays designed for heavy-duty industrial or chemical environments cost more due to structural reinforcement.

Order Quantity: Bulk purchases can reduce per-meter costs by 20–40%. Typical Price RangesLadder-type stainless steel trays: Highest cost, often 20–40% more than perforated trays. Perforated trays: Moderate cost, suitable for general industrial and commercial use.

Solid-bottom trays: Provide maximum protection against dust and moisture, priced higher than perforated but lower than fully enclosed designs.

Additional Cost Considerations

Shipping and Installation: Heavier trays increase transport costs; installation complexity can add labor fees. Customization: Special lengths, modular connections, or accessories may increase the quote. Regional Factors: Local availability and supplier margins can affect final pricing.
