

How much does a power distribution box for a computer room cost in Fiji

Overview

Cost effective solutions to distribute power effectively into a rack enclosure or to connect more devices to a rack-mount UPS.

Key Takeaways

A power distribution box for a computer room in Fiji typically ranges from FJD 1,500 to FJD 15,000 or more, depending on capacity, materials, and features.

Cost Overview

The price of a distribution box depends on several factors: Capacity and specifications: Higher amperage, multiple circuits, and three-phase systems for computer rooms increase costs. Industrial-grade units for commercial or data center use are more expensive than standard residential panels. Material and construction: Enclosures made from powder-coated steel or stainless steel are more durable and weather-resistant, which is important in Fiji's humid climate, and can significantly raise the price.

Internal components: The inclusion of high-quality circuit breakers, surge protectors, busbars, and smart monitoring systems adds to the cost. Installation and labor: Professional installation, wiring, and compliance with local electrical codes can add FJD 1,000–FJD 5,000 depending on complexity and site conditions.

Local Supplier Options

Fiji has several suppliers and manufacturers of power distribution equipment, such as Machinesequipments, which provide both standard and custom solutions for commercial and industrial applications.

Export

Hub also lists local manufacturers that can supply electrical distribution systems suitable for computer rooms.

Practical Considerations

Smart features: Modern distribution boxes with remote monitoring and load management can cost more upfront but improve energy efficiency and reduce long-term maintenance. Future expansion: Choosing a box with extra circuit spaces can prevent costly upgrades later. Compliance: Ensure the unit meets local safety standards and certifications.

In summary, for a computer room in Fiji, expect to pay FJD 1,500–FJD 15,000+ for the distribution box itself, with additional costs for installation, wiring, and any advanced monitoring features. Contacting local suppliers directly will provide the most accurate quote based on your specific requirements.
