Key Takeaways

Huawei power distribution solutions, including intelligent distribution boxes and solar energy systems, are available in Zambia through local distributors like Davis & Shirtliff and Get Off Grid.

Local Distribution and Availability

Huawei has partnered with Davis & Shirtliff to provide solar and digital power solutions across Zambia, including Grid Connect Inverters, Luna energy storage systems, and Power M backup solutions. This partnership leverages Davis & Shirtliff's extensive distribution network to deploy Huawei's products in both urban and rural areas, supporting residential, commercial, and industrial applications. Additionally, Get Off Grid distributes Huawei FusionSolar C&I Smart PV & ESS solutions in Zambia, offering advanced controllers and energy management systems for photovoltaic setups.

Huawei Intelligent Power DistributionHuawei's Intelligent Power Distribution Solution enhances the reliability and efficiency of power networks. These systems provide transparent sensing of transformer districts, improve service capabilities, and ensure safer, greener, and more stable electricity consumption. The technology addresses challenges such as high line loss, frequent outages, and low user satisfaction, making it suitable for complex distribution environments.

Energy Storage and Backup

The Huawei LUNA2000 battery system is a modular Lithium Iron Phosphate (LiFePO4) solution designed for residential and small-scale commercial PV installations. Each power control module supports up to three battery modules (15 kWh), and two modules can be connected in parallel for a maximum of 30 kWh. This system allows flexible energy storage and backup, integrating seamlessly with Huawei inverters for optimized energy management.

Contact and Support

Huawei Technologies Zambia operates locally in Lusaka, providing technical support, installation guidance, and training for their products. Customers can access professional assistance for installation, maintenance, and system optimization to ensure long-term efficiency and reliability.

Summary

For anyone in Zambia seeking Huawei power distribution boxes or solar energy solutions, the main options are through Davis & Shirtliff and Get Off Grid, offering a range of intelligent distribution systems, inverters, and energy storage solutions. These products are designed to improve energy reliability, efficiency, and sustainability for homes, businesses, and industrial applications.
