Key Takeaways

Stainless steel cable trays in Argentina typically range from $10 to $50 per meter, depending on material grade, type, size, and supplier.

Price Overview

The cost of stainless steel cable trays varies widely based on several factors: Material and Corrosion Resistance: Stainless steel trays are more expensive than galvanized steel due to superior corrosion resistance and durability, especially for outdoor or industrial applications. Type of Tray: Ladder-type trays are generally higher priced than perforated or wire mesh trays because they support heavier cables. Size and Dimensions: Wider or thicker trays designed for high-capacity cable runs increase material costs.

Supplier and Import Considerations: Local manufacturers in Argentina may offer competitive pricing due to import substitution policies, while international suppliers may charge more but provide specialized designs. Bulk Orders: Large-scale purchases can reduce per-meter costs significantly, sometimes by 15–50% depending on supplier and shipping.

Market Context

The Argentine cable tray market is influenced by inflation, currency volatility, and raw material costs, which can affect final pricing. Compliance with IRAM standards is mandatory, ensuring safety and quality for industrial and commercial installations. Specialized stainless steel trays for corrosive environments or high-load applications represent the higher-value segment of the market.

Supplier Options

Brilltech Engineers Pvt. Ltd. offers stainless steel cable trays in Argentina with customizable solutions for industrial and commercial projects. They provide support for design, installation, and project-specific requirements.

Alibaba and international wholesalers list stainless steel cable trays starting around $0. 8 per unit for bulk orders, but shipping and import duties to Argentina will increase the effective cost.
