

TBEA acquires communication optical cables

Overview

Earlier, on October 16, 2025, TBEA (600089) announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, TBEA Electrical Equipment Group, had acquired a 74.1942% stake in Yangzhou Shuguang Cable for 946 million yuan in cash, thereby gaining controlling interest in the company. TBEA has built a comprehensive industrial system covering transformers, high and low-voltage switchgear, capacitors and reactors, wires and cables, secondary power systems, GIL, and transformer assembly components. It also possesses core supporting service capabilities in areas such as bushing. On April 16, 2026, TBEA Co. stated during an interactive Q&A session with investors on its online platform that the company's board of directors had approved the proposal regarding the acquisition of a partial equity stake in Yangzhou Shuguang Cable Co. (hereinafter referred to as. System operator TenneT has signed a multi-year contract (Corporate Framework Agreement) with eight contract partners following a tendering procedure. These parties will supply and install the cables for the 110, 150, 220 and 380 kV onshore high-voltage AC connections in Germany and the Netherlands. TBEA's predecessor was the Changji Transformer Factory, which was on the verge of bankruptcy in 1988, with a debt of 230,000 yuan, a collapsed factory building, and employees not receiving wages for half a year.
